note to _____ requested that a copy of Johnston's letter to Drew Pearson be placed in his Personnel file: "My attention has been called to an item which appeared in the Washington Post on Sunday, 11 May, in your column 'Loans Urged for Small Business' under 'Washington Whirl' as follows: 'White House consultant St. Paul Johnston, of the Aeronautical Sciences Institute, has been telling friends about the time Mr. Eisenhower, while Pres of Columbia Univ, called on him for advice on a scientific problem. When the advisors reported a few weeks later that they hadn't found a solution, Mr. Eisenhower angrily pounded the table and shouted: 'But we decided it could be solved'"

Dear Mr. Dulles -

I appreciate very much you sending me a copy of your book on the German Underground. I can see now where many subsequent writers went for their material.

I have been reading many accounts recently of the events centering around the collapse of the Hitler regime. I was in the ETO (with USSBS) when these things were in progress.

After completing your book, I am more than ever impressed with your insight and foresight in analyzing the complicated political moves of the time. Too bad more people could not have seen things that way.

Sincerely

S. Paul Johnston
